WORKSHOP

This workshop is the first in a planned series of training for online teachers currently teaching in Minnesota.

Designed to be a series of workshops, which can effectively stand alone as important staff development and/or build into a program, which will lend itself to online certification down the road.

Attendees at this first workshop day will be able to engage in pre-workshop activities and post-workshop course work in order to earn graduate credit from Bemidji State University. All participants will receive CEUs.

Building bridges between teacher and student in a virtual world.
